

Thursday, July 08, 2010

'Wet bandits' on the prowl

CRIMINALS have devised a relatively new way to lure residents outside their homes to attack and rob them.

The thieves, who usually strike late at night or early morning, have been cutting domestic water pipes in the hope that unsuspecting residents will venture outside to investigate leaks, to their detriment. Please click on the hyperlink below. For your notice and information:

http://m.jamaicaobserver.com/news/Wet-bandits--on-the-prowl_7768692

-0-

Contact: Corporate Public Relations Department 929-1128