

SHIPPING LINE COMMENDS NWC

The National Water Commission has been commended by Intership International Shipping Limited on behalf of the Captain and crew of the MV Barbarossa. In a letter addressed to NWC Metro Regional General Manager, Courtney Lawes, the Operations Co-ordinator of the shipping company, Doreen Brown, expressed the company's sincere thanks and appreciation "for the quality of service received from the National Water Commission team which supplied water to the vessel".

She also wrote, "In heaping praises on the team, the Master commented that the service was delivered in a highly proficient manner," which she continued, left no doubt in their minds about the supply of water to their vessels.

The National Water Commission takes pride in the fact that its water quality is usually of the highest quality, comparing favourably with many other countries and regions. According to Mr. Lawes, "Most cruise lines and cargo ships traveling the region only take water in Jamaica because of this high standard, and this letter of commendation is the most recent of many similar letters received by the Commission." The cargo vessel, MV Barbarossa was recently docked in Kingston.
